ADDRESS ALUMNI

Secretary Daniels and Former Ambassadors White and Hill Banquet Speakers.

KRAMER IS TOASTMASTER.

Statesmen, diplomats, scientists and educators gathered around the banquet board at Rauscher's on Monday evening to take part in the annual banquet of the University Alumni Association.

The newly elected president of the Alumni Association, Mr. Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools of the District, was toastmaster. The guests of honor and those making addresses were Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton, U. S. N., retired, president of the university; Henry White, former Ambassador to France; David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany; Philander P. Claxton, head of the Bureau of Education and Dr. George Sarton, of the University of Ghent, who has just been added to the faculty of the University.

Secretary Daniels complimented the University on having secured the president to whom much of its success is due from the ranks of the navy. He told of the school on board ship "which every one from admiral to enlisted man must attend if he wishes to stay in the service" and of their importance in modern warfare.

"In the old days," said Mr. Daniels, "battles were won by physical prowess; today it is the man with the mathematical learning who triumphs, for there are no more encounters face to face. We have a school on board every ship, and every subject from the simplest to the most complex is taught. The men who want to attend, and 3,000 who are far beyond the usual school age have elected to receive instruction every day."

Mr. White took for his topic the complete divorce of the diplomatic corps from politics and complimented the present administration on having taken several steps in that direction.

"The longer one man can be kept at one diplomatic post the better," he said. "For the one who has learned the ropes is surely better than a man appointed from political or industrial circles, or because he has made large contributions to campaign funds." Mr. White quoted statistics showing that since the civil war this country has sent fifteen Ministers or Ambassadors to England, while England has sent to the United States only 8, and that a like disparity exists in the case of several other nations. He spoke of the great value to the nation of having ambassadors and ministers not only fully conversant with their duties, but intimately and personally acquainted through years of association with their colleagues and with the foreign office staff at the capital to which they are accredited.

"The diplomatic service has been too much of a kaleidoscope for any one to learn what it actually is," said Mr. Hill. "What it needs is permanency in higher as well as lower grades." He went on to speak of the services, on reaching his post, sat humbly at the feet of the permanent clerk of the embassy to be instructed in the customs and usages of diplomacy.

Mr. Hill spoke also of the time when he was a professor in the school of Jurisprudence and Diplomacy of the University and of the later decline of the school owing to the fact that the lack of permanency in any

BASKETBALL GAME!

To-night, Friday, April 23, at 8:30 at the National Guard Armory, the 'Varsity will play the "Georgetown Collegians" for the benefit of Manager Murray who is still seriously ill. Admission will be twenty-five cents. A good game will be had and a large attendance is urged.

ENOSINIAN PLANS BIG MEETING

Dean Wilbur to Speak on History and Aims of Society.

On Friday, April 30, at 8:15 p. m., in the Arts and Science Assembly Hall the Enosinian Society is planning to hold a large meeting for the election of officers and the consideration of some amendments to the By-Laws and Constitution.

Dean William A. Wilbur has promised to be present and will address the meeting on the aims of the society and on its past history. It is hoped to have present also several other members of the faculty and old members of the society.

This is the oldest literary society in the University, having had a continuous existence of more than ninety years. While it has drawn the majority of its membership from Arts and Sciences it is open to all departments. It is the only society in which both the men and women students have been active.

It is hoped to enroll many new members at the meeting or before and application blanks may be obtained in Dean Wilbur's office or from any member of the society.

The meeting will be presided over by Howard W. Hodgkins, Law '16, the present president of the society, and the nominating committee which will report at the time are composed of A. McC. Brown, Law '16, treasurer of the society and chairman; E. M. Jeffrey, Law '17; E. L. Keyser, T. C., '18; P. E. Taylor, Law '17, and W. Gilligan, C. C., '19.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY VISITS BALTIMORE

Election Set for Next Meeting.

The Chemical Society had a very pleasant trip to Baltimore on Saturday, April 17. A large number of the members went on this annual pilgrimage to visit some of the industries of that town. They visited the Copper Electrolytic Works, Sharpe and Dohm's plant, the Cocoa Cola factory and tin decorating plant. Many interesting things were seen and every one enjoyed themselves. Mrs. Enlows chaperoned quite a number of girls who reported a nice though strenuous day.

On Wednesday, April 14, Messrs. Snyder and Brattain gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Some Pharmaceutical Methods." The lecture was illustrated by many very illuminating sketches, which were made especially for the occasion.

The nomination of officers took place at this meeting. The election of the new officers will take place at the May meeting, after which a very interesting and enjoyable program will be given.

BENTON WINS

DAVIS PRIZE

Three Prizes Awarded After Excellent Speaking.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB SINGS.

Ralph Webster Benton was unanimously awarded the first Davis prize at the annual Davis Prize Speaking held in the Arts and Science Assembly Hall on Tuesday evening.

The Davis prizes were founded in Columbian College by Hon. Isaac Davis, of Massachusetts, in 1847. The original endowment was five hundred dollars. "Proceeds of which will afford three premiums in cash or gold medals, of the value of five dollars, of ten dollars and of fifteen dollars annually—these premiums or prizes to be distributed annually to such member of the Senior Class as shall have made the greatest progress in elocution since their connection with the College."

The medals are awarded as prizes at an annual oratorical contest.

The orations are first read separately by each member of the Committee on Award and are marked for quality of composition. They are afterward marked by each member of the Committee for effectiveness in delivery. Composition and delivery are given equal weight in the award. After the contest the Committee in conference determine upon the award of the prizes and this award is announced at the close of the exercises.

The Committee on Award consisted of Messrs. Harry C. Davis, E. Hilton Jackson and Stephen Elliott Kramer.

Mr. Benton, taking as his subject "The Quest for Eldorado," was awarded first prize; Miss Ruth Leah Ayler, speaking on "The Point of View," was given the second prize, and the third prize was won by George Wilson Hodgkins, who spoke on "The Electoral College—Its Purpose and Its Undoing."

Mr. Benton spoke of the lesson to be drawn from the Spanish explorers who, constantly pressing onward in South and Central America seeking El Dorado, the golden city, the city just over the hill, just a little further on, perished in countless hundreds in their quest. He stated as his belief that if these countless hundreds could speak today none would regret their search nor the ultimate sacrifice it entailed, feeling the cost more than repaid by the days of expectation and dream building in the search.

He held that the supreme joy of existence was in the striving, the anticipation and expectation and not in the realization.

Miss Ayler developed her subject on allegorical lines, using as comparative symbols the breadth of vision of an Indian scout in a tree top centuries ago and of an aeroplane scout of today. She spoke of our modern increased vision and broader point of view and of how, though physically wider, many present fields of thought were mentally or morally no broader and that in regard to them no real new point of view had been achieved. She made a plea for a true, new and better "point of view."

Mr. Hodgkins outlined briefly the structure and purpose of the electoral

PLANS COMPLETED FOR LAW BANQUET

All in Readiness for Alumni Reunion.

Practically all details of the big Semi-Centennial Celebration of the founding of the Law School have been completed.

The committee in charge of the general meeting and smoker has under the leadership of D. A. Baer, '12, chairman, arranged an attractive program for Friday evening, April 30th. The annual meeting of the Association will be held that evening at the University Club and will be followed by an informal "get together" smoker. All graduates of the Law School are invited to attend this meeting as the guests of the Association and all members of the Association are expected to be present. The meeting will really be on a larger and more attractive scale what the annual meetings of the Association have been in the past. Alumni who attended the 1913 and 1914 meetings will need no encouragement to be present at this one. At the meeting of the Committee of Fifty many different kinds of entertainment were discussed, but the opinion of the majority was that the interest and inspiration of that very committee meeting of graduates representing many different classes was the best proof that an informal meeting and smoker was the thing.

The Executive Committee has drafted plans for the promotion of class reunions and will cordially cooperate with any class committees for that purpose. The initiative, of course, will have to be taken by the members of the various classes.

The principal and culminating feature of the semi-centennial celebration will be the big Law School dinner at Rauscher's Saturday, May 1st, attended by alumni, faculty and students. This will be the third annual Law School dinner, but as the principal event of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary it has peculiar interest.

college and the conditions that had surrounded the framing of the federal constitution, showing the reason for incorporation in that instrument of this, at first glance cumbersome, mode of electing the chief executive. He went on to describe the rise of party government on lines not anticipated by the framers of the constitution, and the election of strictly pledged electors with the consequent practical nullification of the function it was originally intended and expected that the electoral college would fill. He cited, however, the fact that the college had adapted itself to changed conditions without the necessity of constitutional amendment as an evidence of the worth of that remarkably document, the constitution.

The Girls' Glee Club rendered several selections during the evening, concluding with the new prize song as an encore.

TO GIVE LECTURES

Noted Belgian Scholar and Writer Added to the Faculty.

FAMOUS EUROPEAN SCIENTIST.

George Sarton, doctor of science from the University of Ghent, a noted Belgian scholar and writer, is the first beneficiary under the Belgian scholarship committee organized here recently by Dr. Nevil Monroe Hopkins.

He arrived in Washington a week ago and made his maiden speech in English at the Alumni Banquet on Monday night.

Dr. Sarton founded and edited Isis, an international review devoted to scientific subjects. He was reported to have one of the best scientific libraries in Europe. His entire property and publishing plant has been wiped out. At the time the Germans seized Brussels he had on the presses several numbers of the Isis, notably one reviewing and discussing the scientific thought of India.

He comes with letters of highest recommendation and was most cordially greeted on his arrival here by Emmanuel Havenith, the Belgian minister, who heartily indorsed his selection by Dr. Hopkins as the first beneficiary under his scholarship fund. Dr. Sarton is accompanied by his wife and daughter, and funds for their maintenance for one year have been provided by Dr. Hopkins' committee. In addition to this the University is to pay him a small honorarium.

Dr. Sarton was forced to leave Belgium when that nation was invaded by the German troops. A score of officers and men occupied his country home and he fled with his family to England, abandoning the scientific equipment that he had accumulated during many years and at great expense.

Full announcement of the course of lectures to be given by Dr. Sarton the rest of this year will be announced in the next issue of the Hatchet, and while it has not yet been definitely settled it is expected that he will not only lecture on the history of sciences, but will also lecture on Belgium, its past, present and future, and its institutions. He is going to study the American people and the institutions on this side of the water in order that he may take back to Belgium during its period of educational reconstruction such ideas and views as he may formulate during his time spent in America.

Dr. Sarton was born in Ghent in 1884 and is "gold medalist" of the Belgian universities in Chemistry in 1907. He holds the degree of doctor of sciences in physics, mathematics and celestial mechanics. He is familiar with Greek, Latin, Flemish, Dutch, English, French, German and Italian. This is the first time he has visited the United States, and he comes with the highest recommendations from the leading scientific societies of the old world.

The members of the Belgian scholarship committee organized by Dr. Hopkins include Nevil Monroe Hopkins, chairman; John Joy Edson, treasurer; Brander Matthews, F. D. Roosevelt, Edward McLean, Gilbert H. Grosvenor, Charles C. Glover, Arnold Hague, Oscar T. Crosby, George W. Baird, Charles Dana Gibson, Richard Wainwright, Reginald Hudekoper, Frederick Bugher, Ralph Jenkins, Thomas M. Chataud, Nathan C. Wyeth, Rowland G. Hazard, Harvey W. Wiley, Wendell Phillips Stafford, Frank Wiggleworth Clarke and David Jayne Hill.

Of course, if you're a senior you want a copy of "The Centas" the "Periscope" or the "Caduceus."

When you wish to learn Shorthand, Typewriting, Book-keeping, or prepare for Civil Service, the best place is at

THE SENIOR MARSHALS.

Next Monday night the Association of Class Presidents will meet for the purpose of electing the Senior Marshals, three in number, the Grand Marshal and two assistants.

These men lead the academic procession in cap and gown from the University buildings to the church for the Baccalaureate Sermon and also have charge of the arrangement of the graduates at commencement, having direction of their seating and marching at that time.

This is an institution created but a few years back at the instance of President Stockton. It was intended that these honors should be conferred by the student body on the three Seniors who had done the most for the University during their undergraduate careers, and the power of election was conferred on the Association of Class Presidents as the body representing the students of the University.

The honor of holding one of these offices should be considered the highest which can be received by a student and the award should be strictly made on the merits of the individual.

All department or fraternity affiliations should carry no weight in such a ballot. This year the Association asked each of the Senior classes to designate or nominate that member of the class whom they deemed most worthy of such an honor. It is not understood, however, that the Association is limited in its selection to those men so nominated.

And it should not be so limited. It might well be that one class should contain two men worthy of such an honor, or that through a personal campaign or factional fight a class should fail to nominate the best man.

Were the Association limited to the men nominated by the classes a class might well by such a factional fight nominate a man who was entirely unknown outside of the class and who would thus have no chance of ultimate election, at the expense of eliminating some member of the class really worthy of the honor. For these reasons, while nominations by the classes may be desirable as a guide to the Association, it should not be bound by them.

We trust that this highly important election may be carried through on a thoroughly non-partisan basis, and "may the best man win."

THE CHAMPIONSHIP GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM.

We are indebted to the Periscope for permission to use this halftone which will be used in that book. Being a fine mesh halftone it is made for the high-grade book paper where it will show up better than it does here.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM COMPLETES SEASON

In another column we have printed a resume of the season of the girls' basketball team. It shows clearly that our co-eds far outclassed all of the other teams in this section.

But one game was lost of a rather long schedule, and this was the first game of the season and to a team which was afterwards defeated in a return game.

Our team scored a total of 483 points during the season as against only 139 by their opponents. This clearly shows the "class" of the team and is a record for the members of the team and the whole University to feel proud of.

WOMEN'S CLUB TO ENTERTAIN Plan Informal Reception for May 7 and Invite All Students.

The Women's University Club is making arrangements for an informal reception for all students in the University to be held Friday evening, May 7, in the Assembly Hall. The officers of the Club who are in charge of the affair urge the hearty cooperation of all the students in the University and ask for their assistance in making it successful.

It is hoped that President Stockton will repeat his very interesting address which he gave at the meeting of the Alumni Association a short time ago. This address will prove as interesting to the students as it did to the alumni, covering as it does the present and past of the University.

It is with the double purpose of making more of the students, both men and women, better acquainted with the school and with each other that the Women's University Club has decided on the open reception.

They extend a most cordial invitation to the professors and their wives and hope that many of them will be present and meet the students in this social, informal manner.

After the program, which will include several musical numbers by the glee clubs and Men's Orchestra, there will be a reception in the Women's Study Room, where refreshments will be served and later there will be dancing.

It is hoped that the evening students will remember the date and avail themselves of this opportunity to come into closer contact with student life at the University. The officers of the Club urge that all students, both men and women, should come and accept their hospitality on this occasion.

PERISCOPE PROGRESSING

Arts and Sciences Annual Promised in a Few Weeks.

Work on "The Periscope," the Arts and Science Senior year book, is progressing rapidly. Fully half the book is already in print and the remainder will probably go to press within a few days. The editors cannot promise yet when the book will be ready, but in all probability it will be out long before final examinations begin.

Some excellent verse, stories and other articles have been submitted, and the drawings and cartoons are unusually good. The editors here wish to acknowledge gratefully all contributions and to express their regret that many worthy offerings could not be published because of lack of space.

The quality of the book is assured. A gentleman who has considerable experience in getting out books of this kind says that the engraving work is equal to any he has ever seen. He also complimented the cartoons and art work submitted by members of the class. The engravers declare that in all their experience with college year books they have never had such excellent photographs to work from. Students of the Arts and Science colleges who are disappointed at the failure of the "Cherry Tree" will find that the "Periscope" goes far toward filling its place. It will really have more pages devoted to the Arts and Science colleges than the "Cherry Tree."

Only a very limited number of copies are to speak for a copy soon to be are being printed and it will be necessary of getting one.

If you're an underclassman you can't afford to do without a copy of this year's summary of the year's events, as collected in the yearbooks of the respective departments, and the bound volume of the Hatchet.

They say that one of the professors of the university, noted for being absent-minded, went up his own stair the other day, and seeing a notice on his door, "Back at 2 o'clock," sat down to wait for himself.

BULLETIN APPEARS

Is Larger Than First Issue and Filled With Alumni News.

We have just received a copy of the second number of the Columbian George Washington Law School Association Bulletin.

The size of the paper has been increased to eight pages from the four pages of the original issue and contains about three pages of alumni personals, several of which we print in another column.

The major portion of the issue is given over to plans for the Semi-Centennial Reunion to be held on April 30 and May 1. Altogether this publication is full of interest to all law alumni and should be of valuable assistance in the work of the Association.

diplomatic post made the diplomatic corps unattractive as a life work for high-class men.

Mr. Hill went on to state that a University is something else than a mere campus or group of buildings; that it is two streams, one of the professors, the teachers, and the other stream of the students, the taught, and that he earnestly hoped and believed that these two streams at George Washington would, like Tennyson's brook, "flow on forever."

Mr. Claxton told of the aspirations of the bureau of which he was chief. One thing which he hopes will come to pass is a longer term in rural schools of the United States.

"In this country children attend the rural schools only 137 days a year on an average," said Mr. Claxton, "while in Canada it is 225, and in Australia 240, a number which should obtain with us." He approved the idea of children alternating school instruction with some sort of vocational or industrial activity.

"It is impossible to put education into a child on the storage battery principle," he declared. "The student must have time to digest each portion of knowledge he gets."

Admiral Stockton told of the progress of the University. He declared that its aim now was to assemble a fine faculty and let the construction of elaborate buildings come after. He mentioned that the University had a larger representation in the consular and diplomatic services than any other institution, and that in fact it had furnished more men than the next three Universities on the list combined.

Admiral Stockton spoke of the advancing age of the University, forcibly brought into prominence this spring by the Semi-Centennial of the Law School. He added mention of the fact that in six years the University would celebrate its Centennial and that in ten years the Medical School will reach the century mark.

The committee in charge consisted of Dean Howard L. Hodgkins, John B. Larner, and L. Russell Alden. Music was furnished by the University Orchestra.

Others present were:

A. Lisner, Dr. George N. Acker, Dr. Edmund Barry, E. Roger Boyle, Dean W. C. Borden, Arthur H. Brame, E. C. Brandenburg, the Rev. Charles E. Butler, Mrs. C. H. Butler, Dr. W. K. Butler, Capt. C. C. CANDIDATES CALLED FOR RIFLE TEAM

Arrangements Being Made for Practice for Outdoor Team.

Provided the National Guard Rifle Range at Congress Heights can be secured for the use of the University Rifle Club, and in all probability it will, prospects are brighter than ever for George Washington rifle team to "cop" some of the honors in the Intercollegiate Outdoor Championship Match this year for the fourth time.

The Championship Trophy has been won four times by the Massachusetts "Aggies," three times by George Washington University, once by Princeton and once by Harvard.

With all of last year's veterans back on the job and a large number of men who have had experience on Service and National Guard teams out for the team it looks as though we will be able to give the "Aggies" and the "Middies" a run for their money.

If you are interested in rifle shooting, whether you have had experience or not, give your name to one of the following: E. Clarence Rice, President, Medical School; C. S. Shields, Secretary-Treasurer, Dental School; Watson Davis, Engineering School, or A. L. Stoddard, Law School.

Practice will be held between the 5th and 15th of June, so there will be no interference with school work. Here is an opportunity to shoot against teams from the largest colleges in the country, also to become acquainted the use of the Springfield or Army rifle. Take advantage of this opportunity and try for the team.

Subscriptions for the bound copies of the Hatchet covering the full year should be sent in now.

Prof. Bunzel—"Mr. Meading, what important compounds are formed by Phosphorus and Hydrogen, or are no such compounds formed?"

Mr. Meading—"Yes sir! Why oxides are formed by Phosphorus and Hydrogen combining."

(As the gentle reader may have gathered from the above, T. S. D. has been assisting on the side lines down of the D. A. R. Congress and owing to press of overtime work seeing the pretty pages home and showing them the sights of the city, he was unable to find time to complete this "colyum" this week and hence we had to write this to fill his space. We understood that several other students are with T. S. D. and that if certain co-eds were to meet some of those pages, the Guernsey-Story fight mentioned above wouldn't be in it with the row that would ensue.—The Editor.)

DEPARTMENTAL NOTES.

COLUMBIAN COLLEGE.

The Periscope will be issued about the fifteenth of May. All Seniors who agreed to pay for the book before March 15, and who have neglected to do so yet, are earnestly requested to pay up promptly.

Since a very limited edition of the Periscope will be gotten out, all persons desiring a copy should notify M. R. Walton, Business Manager of the year book immediately. If you don't want to get left in this deal, act quickly.

ENGINEERING.

The Senior Class has selected the design for its class pin and orders have been placed with the engravers.

Arnold A. Brand was suffering with an injured leg which kept him from classes last week.

Prof. Dougherty has put into commission a telescope on the fourth floor. Many of the boys have been looking at the sun spots.

LAW SCHOOL.

The following alumni notes are taken from the Law School Alumni Bulletin.

'70 Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, if he finishes his present term, will have served longer on the Supreme Bench of that state than any other judge in its history. Judge Clark has been on the Bench of North Carolina for thirty years, twenty-five of them on the Supreme Bench. He has also made an enviable record as a clear and forceful thinker, writer and speaker, both in his own state and elsewhere. The alumni will be fortunate in having Judge Clark present at the Reunion and as a speaker at the Dinner.

'85 E. N. Dingley, was candidate for Congress on the Progressive ticket last fall in Kalamazoo, Michigan, and is editor of the Progressive Herald.

'91 William B. Matthews is clerk of the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia. He owns a farm of which George Washington was the first owner, originated the George Washington Land Owner's Association, is a stockholder and policy holder in the George Washington Life Insurance Company, and is a member of the Columbian-George Washington Law School Association.

'96 Clem L. Shaver is president of the Fairmont Trust Company Fairmont, W. Va., is chairman Democratic State Executive Committee and was this year candidate of the minority for Speaker of the House of Delegates. He has been three times elected to the state legislature.

'97 William M. Crook has an active and successful practice in Beaumont, Texas, as a member of the firm of Crook, Lord, Lawhon and New. At the meeting of the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws at its recent meeting in Washington, October 14th-19th, he was elected Vice-President. He has also been appointed Chairman of the Grievance Committee of the Commercial League of America, one of its standing committees. At the celebration at New Orleans, January 8th, 9th and 10th, to commemorate the Battle of New Orleans and the one hundred years of peace among English speaking nations, he was the representative of Governor Colquitt, of Texas.

Fred B. Kunkel writes from 912-14 First National Bank Building, Cincinnati, where he is engaged in practice. Kunkel also has made his debut in the literary world by the publication of essays and poems in the magazines.

CLASSES NOMINATE FOR SENIOR MARSHAL

In response to the request made by the Association of Class Presidents, the Senior classes of the various schools have nominated candidates for election as Senior Marshal and Assistant Marshal.

It is understood that these nominations are for the guidance of the Association, but that it is not limited in its choice to those men so nominated. The following men have been nominated and the secretary of the Association informed of the fact at the time of going to press: Melville R. Walton, C. C.; Edwin Harsch, Eng.; Elmer Stewart, Law; Douglas A. White, Dent., and A. W. Kenner, Med.

In order to assist the class presidents in their selection a short statement follows of what each has done in the University.

Melville R. Walton is the president of the graduating class in Columbian College, the business manager of their year book, the Periscope, and also the president of the Association of Class Presidents. He was also president of his class in 1912-13 and was class editor in 1913-14. For the past two years he has been a member of the Hatchet staff. He is a member of the Alpha Beta Phi fraternity.

Erwin Harsch is the president of the senior Engineering class, and one of the editors of the Hatchet. He was class editor in 1913-14 and also on the Hatchet staff in that year, as well as being secretary of the Athletic Association. He was also class president in 1912-13 and was secretary of the Association of Class Presidents in that year. He is a holder of the first University scholarship and is a member of the Pyramid Honor Society, the Skull and Circle Class Society and the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Elmer Stewart is a member of the senior Law class and has been active as a class editor. He received the degree of B. S. in Chem. from the University in 1912, and while in college was class treasurer in 1909-10 and was active in the organization and management of the Chemical Society. He is a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

Douglas Alfred White is a member of the senior Dental class and has been class editor for the past two years. He was secretary of the New England Society in 1913-14 and is a member of the Psi Omega fraternity.

The name of Mr. Kenner was received just as the Hatchet was going to press and not having Cherry Trees available we cannot give specific data as to him, but he has been active in student interests during his four years in the University.

MEDICAL SCHOOL.

Thomas C. Bost, '15, is temporarily filling an internship at Garfield Memorial Hospital.

Juniors are now being called upon to assist at operations at the University Hospital.

Folsom has gone in the "jitney bus" business with his new Buick. It is understood that ruptured compensation was the cause of death of his other machine.

Editor Collins of the Caduceus reports that the Year Book is rapidly nearing completion. Some real treats are promised.

WITH THE GREEKS.

On Sunday, April 25, 1915, Phi Alpha will hold a house warming at its new quarters 1726 P street. The fraternity will receive from 4:00 to 10:00 p. m. The event will be in honor of the pledges.

Jacob Kotz, Medical School, '17, has been initiated into Phi Alpha.

A delightful informal dance was held by Sigma Kappa last evening at the home of Miss Joanna Best.

Sigma Phi Epsilon announces the initiation of Roger Brown, C. C. 18; and Benjamin C. Cruickshanks, Eng. '18, on Saturday, April 17.

Sigma Kappa entertained Miss Jones and Miss Eleanor Carty at luncheon on Monday, April 19, and on Wednesday, April 21, were hosts to President and Mrs. Stockton, Dean William A. Wilbur, Miss Edith B. Lowe and Miss Mary H. Watkins.

Mr. Paul M. Spencer, of New York City, Grand Chaplin of the Sigma Nu Fraternity, was the guest of Alpha Beta Phi last week.

Messrs. L. T. Leonard and C. R. Breneman attended the banquet of the First Division Convention of Sigma Nu, held at Wilmington, Del., on April 10.

NEW CATALOGUE APPEARS

Several Innovations and Changes in Matter and Arrangement.

The new issue of the University Catalogue has been received from the printer and is being distributed among those who ask for copies. Many students are already mapping out their courses for next year.

An innovation in the class lists at the back of the book is the fact that after each name in the Arts and Science list is placed the number of credit hours the student had at the beginning of the present collegiate year.

That the alumni of the University take an active interest in its affairs is evidenced by the fact that the officers are given ten local alumni associations besides the general associations. The local organizations run from New York to Puget Sound and Los Angeles.

The list giving the geographical distribution of students shows that students are registered from every state in the union and nineteen foreign countries.

Less than half of the students, 44.2 per cent, to be exact, are shown to be natives of the District of Columbia, which indicates clearly the national and international scope of the University as well as its strong local standing.

COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

Last week the Senior Class paid a visit to the National Vaccine Laboratory. Their time was divided between looking at pretty Lab. assistants and watching the bacilli under the scope doing the latest dance steps.

Paul Davis is now a Kappa Sigma man and P. Marshall Johnson a Phi Sigma Kappa.

The students of the Junior and Senior class have been very lucky to have the following lectures given them for which they are grateful for the help secured and the enlightenment received. The lectures were as follows:

Dr. Lubbs, of the Department of Agriculture, on the "Color and Structure of Organic Composition."

Dr. Hutton on the "Harrison Act."

Prof. Howard, a special lecture on "Woods."

Prof. Hudson, an expert on the subject with the Department of Agriculture, spoke on "Sugars."

A lecture by two government experts on "Liquid Air" was also heard.

"THE CASE METHOD."

In the recently published bulletin of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, on "The Common Law and the Case method in American University Law Schools," the following statement is made by Professor Josef Hedlich, the special investigator for the Foundation: "As the method was developed, it laid the main emphasis upon precisely that aspect of the training which the older text-book school entirely neglected: The training of the student in intellectual independence, in individual thinking, in digging out the principles through penetrating analysis of the material found within separate cases. * * * In fact that it has actually accomplished this purpose, lies the great success of the case method. For it really teaches the pupil to think in the way that any practical lawyer * * * ought to and has to think. It prepares the student in precisely the way which, in a country of case law, leads to full powers of legal understanding and acumen."

At the meeting of the American Bar Association last October, Mr. Charles A. Boston, of the New York Bar, Chairman of the Section of Legal Education, referring to the changes in methods of legal education said: "Coming as I did from one of the old-fashioned schools, where discussion was not indulged in, but where the authoritative wisdom of the ages was doled out in measured doses through lectures to somnolent listeners by successful and prominent practitioners or judges after a hard day's work in court or in office practice, I imbibed perhaps too little of the modern learning to speak of it as one of the initiated or save with awe. But I confess that starting with a critical belief that modern methods were unorthodox and that they could not educate, I have been won over by seeing results * * * I have, I think, had more than the usual opportunity to judge of the results of different methods of preparation for the Bar in their practical application * * * I am now convinced by these years of observation that starting with a man of intellectual ability, the best preparation for an able counselor is the most modern training by the case system of instruction as followed in some of the leading institutions, supplemented by a position upon one of the law reviews calling for constructive work."—The Columbian-George Washington Law School Association Bulletin.
